

HIP-HOP STUDIES & VISUAL CULTURE MINOR (HHVC)
VISUAL COMMUNICATION & DIGITAL MEDIA ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF FINE & PERFORMING ARTS | COLLEGE OF ARTS & SCIENCES

Description: The VCDMA program under Department of Fine and Performing Arts offers a new minor in Hip-Hop Studies & Visual Culture (HHVC). This will be an interdisciplinary minor that focuses on research, critical discourse and creative projects on hip-hop and its elements as expressed through, but not limited to: DJ-ing, MC-ing, Graffiti, B-Boy-ing (Dance) and Knowledge. The minor will also allow opportunities for research on visual culture, technology, contemporary art, pop culture, design and media.

Furthermore, this minor incorporate studies in contemporary art/design history, aesthetics, criticism and theory; performance art: music, theater and dance. Students will also review the impact of hip-hop on popular culture, technology and the humanities. This unique minor consists of a minimum of 21-24 credits depending on the course plan, as students will consult with the academic advisor.

The minor allows students an opportunity to investigate how hip-hop as a cultural, artistic, social, economic and even political phenomenon relates to global society as a whole. Students will learn how the foundation of African and African American cultural, musical and creative expression and traditions have also influenced and impacted hip-hop.

Goals: The goals are to use visual culture as a vehicle to further investigate how hip-hop and related forms are expressed and communicated in the artistic, musical and specifically visual traditions.

Although this new area of focus resides primarily in VCDMA, in the Department of Fine and Performing Arts, the need for collaboration with other disciplines and departments within the Bowie State University will be critical.

This program will be open to all students regardless of backgrounds or majors and to also for those who seek to develop specific research and creative projects, presentations, exhibitions, performances and/or trans media projects focused or related to hip-hop studies and/or visual culture. Students will declare the minor in consultation with their program advisor.
