Integration with SGA
By David Byers

In a tense hour long war of words, the students of Bowie State College debated the racial policies of this college during a meeting which was called to order by Norman Parram, President of the SGA.

The subject was brought up by Mr. Norman Parram, President of the SGA, who described the meeting as a call to action. He called for the establishment of a new committee to address the issues of racism and to promote unity among others, to carry out sufficient integration or risk loss of all Federal funds, such as the N.O.R.C.C. and the E.O.C.O. budget. Under Maryland's set of guidelines, all colleges and universities must have an integration coordinator, and -if necessary- to organize an integration committee. The meeting was attended by students and faculty members from Bowie State College, including the President, the Vice President, and the student body representatives.

The meeting continued in the usual manner until the Chairman of the SGA called for the vote on the proposal. The proposal was passed 15-0, with several abstentions.

The meeting adjourned at 10:00 PM.
It is truly disheartening to see that many students and even faculty members are blaming the failure of student involvement and participation on the university itself. We tend to believe that the university is at fault for not providing enough opportunities for students to get involved. However, it is important to remember that the university cannot provide these opportunities if we do not take the initiative to get involved ourselves.

In recent years, the university has made significant efforts to improve student involvement. For example, they have expanded their extracurricular activities and created more opportunities for students to get involved. However, it is ultimately up to the students to take advantage of these opportunities and become active participants in their university experience.

One way to increase involvement is to attend student government meetings, which are open to all students. These meetings are where decisions about student involvement are made, so it is important to have a voice in these decisions. Attending meetings can also give you a better understanding of what is happening on campus and how you can get involved.

Another way to get involved is to join a student organization. There are many organizations on campus that focus on different interests and activities, so there is sure to be one that appeals to you. Joining an organization will allow you to make new friends and work towards a common goal.

In addition to student government meetings and student organizations, there are also opportunities to volunteer on campus and in the community. Volunteering can be a great way to give back to your community and gain valuable experience.

Ultimately, it is up to each individual student to take the initiative and get involved on campus. By doing so, you will not only have a more fulfilling college experience, but you will also be helping to create a more vibrant and active university community.
The 13th Annual edition of the "Miss Bowie Assembly" was held this year. The assembly was divided into four parts: speech, bathing suit contest, modeling of gowns, and talent. The candidates for the title were Miss Joan Freeland, Miss Dorothy Hynson, and Miss Beverly Ming. Winner of the affair was Joan Freeland.

In their introductory statements, Miss Freeland said that she had "traveled only half the road in serving Bowie State". Miss Hynson used a "Dream" theme, and Miss Ming delivered a very impressive poem.

During the bathing suit presentation, all three young ladies were very fashionable. Miss Freeland wore a black bathing suit with peek-a-boo holes in the front; Miss Ming wore a blue and white modern suit and Miss Hynson a white one-piece suit.

Miss Ming sang "Summer Time" from Porgy and Bess, Miss Freeland portrayed the Black Mother, as she recited the poem, "The Negro Mother". Miss Freeland was dressed in an African garb. Miss Hynson sang "Let It Be Me" and wore a crimson dress.

Modeling of the gowns followed and Miss Freeland wore a shimmering black dress with silver shoes and white gloves. Miss Ming wore an ice blue brocade gown and full-length coat with white gloves and silver shoes.

The Question and Answer period was the final part of the assembly. A dispute arose over this section inasmuch as all three of the ladies received their questions at the same time which meant that two of them had more time to compose their answer. This should be corrected so that next year all candidates receive equal treatment.

Qualifications for the Miss Bowie Assembly were as follows: each young lady must be single; she must be a graduating senior; she must have a 2.5 accumulative grade average; she must have attended Bowie for at least one year prior to the contest and she must possess beauty and talent.
Homemaking will cover one full week this year. Activities will take place from February 16 to 21. Oscar Kidd, captain of the Sophomore class, gave the following list of activities:

Kappas Win Intramurals

By Floyd Wheeler

The Kappas were the outstanding team of the season by edging Groove Phi Groove Social Fellowship 14 to 13 in the final twenty second inning of play. The final point was made by Miss Harriett Smith, who put the Kappas in the lead and then put the game out of reach of the opposing team.

The Kappas have been working very hard all season and have shown many players that they are a team to be reckoned with in the future.

Coach Fox declined the offer. He began tryout sessions for an all-black team to represent the Americans but unfortunately was not successful.

In 1964 Coach Fox decided to attend the Homecoming Game of Graduates. He received his diploma from Morgan State College in 1965 and proudly holds a certificate of appreciation from the President of the nation.

In 1964 Coach Fox accepted the offer of the president of the Mountaineers to coach the team. He remained in top-notch condition so they'll be prepared for the upcoming season.

The newspaper staff and the administration have been working hard to make the season a success. They are hoping that their hard work will pay off and that the team will do well in the season.
